

consultation with the Gram Sabhas comprising of all political parties who have got some faith and determination to give land to the tiller, should enquire and determine the possessor of the land. While determining it is not the land record or phani written by the Shanbhogues that has to be considered but the deposition of the owner of the adjoining land should be given prominence. It is only then we could give the land to the tiller.

Then there must also be a Land Reforms Review Board. We have no objection even if any of the Minister is made as the Chairman of that review Board. But unless there is such a Board there cannot be any follow-up action in this behalf. This Board must be a watch dog and fully effective.

Lastly, I would like to mention that there is one redundant clause in the proposed Bill, i.e., with regard to exceptions to the ceiling limits. This kind of exemption has so far helped to shield the vested interests. In this clause it is stated that ceiling limit does not apply to the charitable and religious institutions, etc. In respect of Hyderabad Inams Abolition Bill the Joint Select Committee has given its report wherein it has stated that such exception clauses should not be there. Hence, I feel that this redundant clause in the Land Reforms Bill giving exceptions to certain cases should also be deleted. Under no circumstance the ceiling limit should exceed more than 10 acres for the class I land. Once we start giving exception a question could easily be put why there should be exception to the plantation, etc. In fact the aim of the C.P.I. is to fight for nationalisation of Plantation. These exceptions could be manoeuvred by vested interests. Therefore I say that this exception proviso should not be there.

With these words, I thank the Chair and conclude my speech.

BUSINESS OF THE HOUSE

Mr. DEPUTY SPEAKER.—I have an announcement to make. That is with regard to discussion on a matter of urgent public importance for short duration under Rule 59 listed for to-day, it will be taken up on some other day since the Hon. Minister for Revenue is busy in the Legislative Council.
